OFFICIALS IN CHARGE OF SENIOR WEEK

ELIZABETH NEWMAN

As a partner to Mr. Arnold and Mr. Bishop on the executive board of the senior class, Elizabeth Newman was elected to fill the office of vice president. Miss Newman, who intends to teach next year, is well prepared in her major subjects, art and history. She showed unusual ability as an artist in her work as art editor of the 1929 and 1931 Obelisks. As a reward for her activity in the Women's League, she was elected to the vice presidency this spring.

Zetets Present

"Outward Bound" This Evening

The Zetetic Literary Society will definitely conclude its activities for the year this evening at eight o'clock when it will present "Outward Bound," Sutton Vane's successful phantasy, at the Shryock Auditorium. This play was produced as a moving picture by Warner Brothers in 1930.

The members of the Zetetic Society who have parts in the play have had an extensive amount of dramatic experience at both this college and other colleges. The cast includes the following:

Scrubby ..... Will Adams
Ann ..... Jane Rose Whitley
Henry ..... James White
Tom Prior ..... Rolla Winklemeyer
Mrs. Cliveden-Banks ..... Betty Furr
Reverend William Duke, Marc Green
Mrs. Midget ..... Martha Morrow
Mrs. Lingley ..... Harold Bailey
Reverend Frank Thompson, Vernon Anderson

The play is under the capable direction of Julia Jonah, dramatic coach. Miss Jonah is assisted by Jeanette Ann Evans and Marie Campbell, English majors.

The lounge smoking room of a small ocean liner is the scene for the action of this play. All the characters, with the exception of Scrubby, are passengers, and they all are bound for no particular port at all.

When the amazing discovery is made by Tom Prior, fellow passengers refused to believe such a theory, but after Tom's insistence, they discover for themselves their true destination.

The play ends in a stirring and mystic scene which shows them struggling to find each other after they have been separated by a force greater than themselves.

Last night the Socratic Society presented "To The Ladies," a clever and amusing satire written by Marc

CLARENCE ARNOLD

In a highly contested election Clarence Arnold was chosen last fall to head the seniors during their final collegiate year. At that time, Mr. Arnold's record was an outstanding one, for he had to his credit an honor letter for activities, an appearance in the Donovan Affair, membership in the band for two years, and a capable execution of the office of business manager of the 1931 Obelisk. During his term he has accumulated further honors as president of the Socratic Society and as a member of Kappa Phi Kappa. It was under his leadership that Senior Week was established, a program that has as its forerunner the single class day that was held annually before the erection of the gymnasium. Mr. Arnold has completed a major in physics, and plans to teach next year.

Dean George Wham Presents Report on 1932 Placements

Dean George D. Wham, Chairman-Secretary of the Appointments Committee, was asked by President Shryock to make a statement as to progress made thus far in the placing of graduates. Mr. Wham said that, according to the figures in hand, somewhat more than a third of the four-year course graduates, and considerably more than a third of the two-year graduates have been definitely placed for the coming year.

It will be borne in mind that the securing of positions continues up to and even following the opening of school in the fall, and that some of the best placing occurs within the weeks of the summer session. The situation as reported above, despite untoward conditions, is better than it was a year or even two years ago at commencement time, and it is well known by members of the school that the percentage of placing by the close of the season was exceptionally high. In other words, the report as given was distinctly encouraging, indicating that continued effort by all concerned will produce again this year a satisfactory result.

PAUL BISHOP

Paul Bishop, a graduate of the Harrisburg High School, was selected by the senior class at a meeting last fall to fill the position of secretary-treasurer. Mr. Bishop established his popularity through his activity in basketball, and during the 1931 season he was particularly valuable to the college team. In the same year he served as assistant to Mr. Arnold in the business management of the Obelisk. He has completed a major in zoology. Next fall he will become the principal of a grade school at Raleigh, Illinois.

"The Slander Case" Is Offered by C. of C. at Final Meeting

Terminating a successful year's activities, the S. I. T. C. Chamber of Commerce presented its final program before a large group of students and visitors Thursday evening in the Socratic Hall.

Featuring its final exhibition, the organization presented a mirth-provoking mock trial, "The Slander Case," which met with very favorable reception. The presentation was especially well cast. Included in the characterizations were Ernest Deason as the Judge; A. C. Dawson as the Sheriff; Marion Graskewicz, as Bailiff; John Bugel, as clerk of the Court; Leon Lauder as the plaintiff's attorney, A. R. Kant; Ruby Shiffendecker as the plaintiff, Mary Ann Cabot; Margaret Brown as Virginia Dare, and Kelly Dunsmore as Dr. I. Q. DeRubus, both witnesses for the plaintiff; James Stolar as I. B. Ibid, the defense attorney; Eleanor Mullenaux as the defendant, Flora Gossig; Mildred Lasater as Emmalee Poste and Ella Mae Hallagan as Precious Stone; Jack Reading as Prof. N. O. Goode, witnesses for the defendant. In addition there were three court reporters and a jury with its foreman.

Largely responsible for the success of this program was the coaching of Mary Waisath, a member of the Chamber of Commerce who directed "The Slander Case."

Special music was furnished for the occasion by Paul Reeder who played a group of piano numbers before the presentation of the mock trial.

LAST W. A. A. MEETING

The last meeting of the Women's Athletic Association was held Thursday afternoon in the gymnasium. The meeting, which was to have been a combination picnic-swimming party was forced to be held indoors because of the rainy weather.

W. A. A. has sponsored many activities during the past year. Some of these were tournaments in volleyball, hockey, basketball and tennis and the annual Play Day. Several long hikes were made, while a number of indoor parties were held at the gymnasium.

The retiring officers of the year are, President, Virginia Shields; Vice President, Alice Mae Rushing; Secretary-Treasurer, Helen Reiman. Awards were given to sixteen girls for attaining the required number of points.

At the close of this term Miss Cox will leave for her home in Kansas City. Miss Cox plans to study at the University of California next winter.

VIRGINIA DRAPER CROWNED QUEEN OF MAY FESTIVAL

MISS ETHERIDGE, MRS. MUZZEY
AND MISS CARPENTER
DIRECT FETE

A large audience was treated to a clever and beautiful panorama when the department of Physical Education for Women presented its sixth annual spring festival on the campus east of the gymnasium Friday afternoon. Over four hundred colorfully costumed girls took part in the festival which was directed by Miss Etheridge, Mrs. Muzzey, and Miss Carpenter. The program consisted of pantomines, as well as much individual and group dancing.

As the climax of the May festival, Virginia Draper, freshman, of Carbondale, was crowned Queen of May. She was elected by the freshman girls from the eleven candidates named by the classes in physical education. Miss Draper is a graduate of Carbondale Community High School and is one of the most popular students in school. During the past year she has been prominent in school activities. She is a member of the Zetetic Society and McDowell Club, and she also took part in the Homecoming play.

The theme of this year's festival was "Story Book Land," and presented the dramatization of various forms of literature popular among children. These were adventure, nursery rhymes, mythology, legend, folk lore, and fairy tales. Each of the Physical Education classes represented one type.

The scene is a great stone fireplace with large books leaning on their side. In front are a cozy armchair and a pile of cushions.

A little boy and girl seek to amuse themselves by reading before the fireplace. They fall asleep and in their dreams Peter Pan, with his companions, Tinker Bell and Wendy, come and carry the children away to Story Book Land.

Here they encounter story book characters known to every child. Mother Goose characters appear first, Old King Cole, Mary Quite Contrary, the Queen of Hearts and Little Bo Peep.

Next, they behold the dreadful results of the curiosity of Little Pandora and are greatly relieved when

Conclave

Delta Sigma Epsilon's tenth annual conclave will be held in Buffalo, N. Y., during August. Alpha Delta is sending Maureen Webb, of West Frankfort, and Kathryn Lentz, of Carbondale, to the meeting.

The good fairy Hope appears from the mysterious box to comfort her.

Peter Pan then whisks them away to Sherwood Forest with Robin Hood and his Merry Men, following which they find themselves in the rat-infested village of Hamelin. Here they find the mysterious Pied Piper.

They then witness a terrible struggle between Eugene Field's Calico Cat and Gingham Dog, in which the principals eat each other.

Last of all, the romantic fairy tale of Cinderella is enacted before the sleeping children. The Prince crowns Cinderella Queen of May and all the story book characters return to do her honor.

The cast of characters was:
Peter Pan—Helen Wayman.
Tinkerbell—Lena Ledford.

Art work was done by Marion Allen and Glenn Morris.

1832 Obelisk is Distributed May 30

The 1832 Obelisk, the product of the members of the Junior class, appeared Monday morning, May 30. Presenting in two hundred sixty-two pages the year's history of the school, the book includes literary and art work of the finest order. From the frontispiece to the finish, the volume is a tribute to the ability of all its contributors and advisors.

Though the order of the sections of the book is quite usual, a note of novelty occurs in the prevailing motif, a development of the history of education. In the introduction, successive pages are given to comments on the education work of Socrates, Aristotle, Evainus, Rousseau, and Pestalozzi. The section is concluded with a full page portrait of President Shryock.

The arrangement of the pictures of the faculty members also is different from that in previous Obelisks, in that full pages are given to departments, and half-pages to the department heads.

The feature section, of which Marc Green is editor, is altogether unique, taking the form of Willy Willy's diary. The humor is pertinent and the poetry that runs through the chapters is priceless. Mr. Green certainly has exhibited remarkable originality and literary talent.

In each section, and as a whole, the book is a splendid achievement. The treatment of the social, literary and athletic organizations of the student and faculty classifications, and of the features, is adequate and capable. The art work, properly interspersed throughout the book, easily parallels in quality the literature. The book is unquestionably the result of splendid cooperation among staff members and efficient administration. Donald Payne, editor, Richard Cooper, business manager, and Miss Barbour and Dr. Kellogg, faculty advisors, deserve unlimited credit for the success of the annual, in presenting fairly and creditably the functions of the college.

SELMA NELSON TO HEAD MU TAU PI

instill in them the desirability of keeping up to date as school teachers. The students have signified an intention of a moderate contribution to build up a departmental library through subscription to foreign chemical journals. The faculty sponsors have volunteered to supply the library with complete volumes of current American scientific literature. The group will begin actively at the beginning of the 1932 fall term. The Seminar plans to meet bi-monthly, attendance being voluntary.

Resume of 1931-32 Activities

With this, the final issue of the paper, the Egyptian presents the following review of the high points of the 1931-32 academic year.

Prior to the opening of the fall term a second national education sorority was added to the Greek organizations on this campus. Alpha Nu chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma was installed early in September. The organization has met with fruitful results and has expanded somewhat its membership.

1931 saw an exceedingly successful Homecoming—with its well-received "Depressions of 1931," the Strut and Fret production, its stunt parade, and its football victory when the Maroons defeated DeKalb 7-6 in the final football battle of the season.

Mu Tau Pi, the journalistic fraternity, organized early in the fall term, is made up of members from the staffs of the Egyptian and the Obelisk. This organization has done much to promote the journalistic status of the Egyptian. During the winter term Mu Tau Pi sponsored a writing contest for students other than members of the fraternity.

Lewis Browne, author and lecturer in December presented a lecture "What Our Novelists are Saying," at the Shryock Auditorium. Mr. Browne made a very favorable impression here, and was deemed a popular lecturer.

During the latter part of November the Student Council adopted a new cut system to go into effect at the beginning of the winter term. Briefly, the new system provided for four cuts to each student in each class, with the privilege of unlimited cuts to those of senior college rank having a four point average.

All in all the new plan has not met with the desired satisfactory results. It has met with keen opposition from some faculty members, especially.

Opening a four day observance of the Washington Bicentennial celebration on this campus, Dr. Willis G. Swartz gave a very fitting address, "Washington's Place in Our National Life Today."

The Strut and Fret Washington plays were especially appropriate and well received. This mid-spring offering of S. I. T. C.'s Thespians was one of the best.

At the annual meeting of the presidents of teacher colleges held at Washington, D. C., February 19-20, S. I. T. C. was ranked without a single deficiency. This brought added recognition to the college in that it was the first time this rating was tendered S. I. T. C.

A noteworthy and unprecedented honor coming to the Egyptian was that the college paper was awarded second place by the Columbia Press judges this spring.

"This award is recognized as one of the highest given any campus publication since the organization of the institution."

Bringing distinction to himself and the college, W. M. Bailey, head of the Botany department, received his degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Chicago University, March 15. Dr. Bailey's thesis was "Some Structural and Metabolic Effects of Psychological Pre-determination."

Marking the return of S. I. T. C. to the field of intercollegiate debating after several years of non-participation, the varsity debate team defeated Evansville College April 1 in a non-decision debate. Intercollegiate debating was brought about and sponsored by the Forum Debating Club, which plans to expand its intercollegiate debating during the 1932-33 school year.

The third annual W. A. A. Play Day proved to be a very successful event, in that the largest number of high school girls ever attending participated in the affair.

For the third consecutive year the forum captured the laurels in the spring debates, winning by a 4-3 decision. Especially deplorable was the fact that little interest was manifested in the debates except by those few people directly concerned with them.

Producing one of the finest performances ever exhibited in the S. I. T. C. auditorium, the College Music department presented the opera, "Martha," April 21.

Through the consistent efforts of the Education Club—an organization instituted on this campus last fall—the Alpha Upsilon chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, National education fraternity was installed at this college May 14. Prof. A. D. Wright, national secretary, presided in the initiations and installations. This is the largest undergraduate fraternity, and consequently is probably the most important organization that has ever been brought to this campus.

Brought to this campus by the Poetry Club, a new college organization, Eunice Tietjens, poet and lecturer, delivered an informal address here on the evening of May 19.

At a recent student election the student body balloted by an overwhelming vote for a change in the honor letter from "N" to a combination letter of a large "I" and a small "s." This change was brought about after much agitation on the part of the student body.

For the first time in the history of the institution Senior Week has been granted the graduate of the four year course. A complete week of senior activities is being used, and the plan is meeting with much favor.

One of the largest organizations on this campus was perpetrated last week by the chemistry majors and minors, when they formed a discussion group, "The Seminar." The society will begin its activities at the beginning of the 1932 fall term.

Briefly summarizing the athletics of the past year, each major sport will be reviewed.

FOOTBALL

At the beginning of the season "Mac" had 114 candidates, more than ever before, and 95 of these remained on the squad during the entire season. Fourteen letter men returned, being largely responsible for the successful season. Of nine games played only two were lost—to Old Normal and Shurtleff, both upsets.

Stellar playing of the season was featured by Canada and Cisne on the line, and Lauder and Wimberly in the backfield. Abe Martin's injuries in the first game somewhat weakened the team.

BASKETBALL

"Mac" picked two teams at the start of the season—one made up of seniors and the other a combination freshman-sophomore team. During the first tilts, the teams alternated, each playing a half of the game. In the early games the Colts dropped five games with a total of only seven points. The State Normal basketballers, champions of the 1931 season, were defeated by the Colts in the latter part of the season.

TRACK

Coach Lingle's prospects did not appear so brilliant at the opening of the track season. However, the team has developed into the strongest one ever representing this college, both as individuals and as all-around, balanced squad. The fact that the all-around balance exists is evidenced by the fact that the S. I. T. C. tracksters twice defeated State Normal, who later took the Little Nineteen meet.

S. I. T. C. was unable to take the conference meet because of lack of enough individuals to nab first places. The 1932 season marked the third year that the S. I. T. C. track team was not defeated in dual meets. The Maroons won four dual meets, one quadrangular, the State Teachers College championship for the fourth year, and placed fourth in the Little Nineteen meet, in which they scored twice as many points as ever before.

GOLF

* This is the first year that Southern has entered a participant in the Little golf event. Roy Williams placed second at the state meet at Galesburg.

TENNIS

In both men's and women's doubles were the S. I. T. C. teams victors. Laurence Springer and Clarence Stevenson took the doubles of the Little Nineteen for men.

Kate Conte and Johanna Purtil captured honors for Little Nineteen women's doubles.

BASEBALL

The only type of baseball engaged in here is the intramural baseball which this year was introduced for the first time on this campus. Both students and faculty have become rather interested in the sport.

INGENIOUS CAMOUFLAGE

A French lieutenant who served through the World war recently demonstrated in Paris the advantages of his new camouflage invention whereby, in a short time, a pedestrian or soldier can be transformed into a heap of grain, heap of leaves, a bunch of newspapers, tree stump or what not while walking. His name is Georges Felix, and his invention consists of a kind of a net that weighs less than a pound, and when not used for camouflage purposes can be employed in numerous other ways.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS B. M. G.

Now here's your degree, live it down,
live it down,
Oh here's your degree, live it down!
School boards show disdain
For the man with a brain
But go for the swain
Who is ultra inane.
You have a degree, a nice B. Ed.
Live it down.

"Have you seen storm and strife?
Do you eat with your knife?
Have you children and a wife?
Have you taught all your life?
Then why bother me? What good's your degree?
Live it down!"

"You college boys are passionate
Four years makes you degenerate
In fact, to be quite accurate,
We've hired an eighth grade graduate.
You needn't plea—it's your degree.
Live it down!"

You must mingle with the horde
And chew tobacco with the board
And demonstrate your I.Q. by
Ability to multiply.
Also let each brain-child play
The role of little stowaway.
Boards offer with profanity
A pox on personality;
Another on your B. Ed.
"And so, with beaucoup de joie
We confer on you this degree."
But when they scoff and when they
bray,
Remember our wee roundelay,
"Live it down!"

BEWARE OF MENTAL RUTS

It is a regrettable fact that many students look forward to graduation as the end of their scholastic labors and promise themselves a complete let-down, as far as study is concerned, as soon as the precious sheepskin is safely tucked away. Many college graduates really adhere to this foolish resolution even after they have had an adequate vacation from the school-room atmosphere. Graduation should not be considered the end of knowledge-seeking, but only the beginning. Our school days simply equip our minds for real learning and wisdom, and we owe it to ourselves not to allow our thoughts to become stale. Surely nothing is more apt to cause mental stagnation than a stubborn resistance to new knowledge, which inevitably leads to what is often called "getting into a rut." If you are about to leave school for a year or two, or forever, apply this formula: Keep your mind so fresh, active, and efficient that you may at any time return to college able to keep up with those students who have not been out of school since childhood. How many adults that you know would be brilliant students if they were to return to school now? The few who could are undoubtedly the leaders in their communities and the people you most admire. There is no secret to the thing, yet many fail to realize the importance of keeping the brain in good condition. The brain is a machine, a most expensive one, and it deserves the best possible care. Seek to improve it, day by day, year by year, and the returns will pay you a hundred-fold.

WHY NOT HALF AND HALF DANCES?

With this terrible depression spread throughout the land, every possible means of cutting expenses has been practiced by colleges and universities all over the country. S. I. T. C. has cut expenses to the bone and has joined in on the chorus with the others, singing their song of woe and hard times and slashing campus costs with wild abandon.

In the midst of all this turmoil, many colleges have felt it necessary for students to go fifty-fifty on the financial side of all dates, dances, and such costly affairs. Long has the woman been the nonpaying partner in campus society life, but lo! Now she has been dragged down with the rabble to pay her half of the dance fee "or else." Statistics prove that the average college woman has more money to spend than the average college boy. Yet the men must bear an unduly large share of the financial burden.

Dances are dear to the hearts of students in Carbondale, but money has a harsh word to say against many elaborate plans. So why not give the suggestion some thought and probably save half on future frivolities. For after all, our dads are working our way through college, you know. And remember how Aunt Gertie cried when dad mortgaged the old farm to send you here.

SCRIBALOVE

The last week—sobs and hurrahs. It's about time. Another two weeks of school would be just too bad for us. We long ago quit making pretense of studying, and right now we're about ready to take the count, only hoping that we can hold on long enough to be saved by the closing of the term. Then for a long sojourn at a country villa to rejuvenate. A long summer with nothing to do but sun ourselves through the long summer days and sleep through delightful siestas. And we will keep cool with all sorts of simply chilling ices. Lemonade, tea, limeade and what-not. And if the wets are successful, there is absolutely no telling what the "what-not" may include. Hurrah for the wets. And maybe these are all "opium dreams," as we will find out very soon when summer comes with all its discomforts such as flies, mosquitos, knats, and other buggy creatures. Then shall we sweat until our ears wilt and droop down over neck—then will we curse the damnable summer and wish to Hades it was fall again, and we could go back to school like decent people do. And when miraculous fall does come again, we'll probably all come trooping back to studies and vicissitudes of scholastic life. Which all goes to show that life runs in cycles, and it's bumpy all the way round.

And the examinations get our goats, and we envy the seniors, and all that. But there's no good will come of mourning, because as everyone knows the seniors have worked for four years to miss four classes, which is the number contained in a regularly constituted week. And the seniors that don't graduate in June don't get any vacation anyway, so why should a lower classman growl. You know it really is tough for a senior who graduates in an odd month and is consequently deprived of his just and lawful lay-off. But then, if all seniors got vacations some very astute scholars would take all three senior terms in the spring. And that must be guarded against.

Then there's the matter of Spring plays as featured by the literary societies. This "Outward Bound" is racked up to be a ghostly affair, and the characters are involuntary exiles of this pleasant world and hell-bent or heaven-bent for another. That sounds interesting, and it's supposed to be the low-down because we got it direct from the actors who are starring the drama.

And if we're not mistaken there is another play to "come off" before many weeks have passed. The title of this worthy is "To The Ladies." Quite a title, that. Sounds like a toast to the fems, which is just too romantic for the days of prohibition. As to the plot and content of this drama we have no single inkling. Which makes the play even more mysterious to those of us who are so curious. Maybe this is "morbid psychology" but we just go nertz about the unknown.

And when the last week's Egyptian came out they were gone in a hurry. That ad by the Barth really fetched 'em. Everybody, I guess, wanted to take somebody to a show. Even the staff members were forced to go over to the cafe and hunt around on the floor for a dilapidated issue, so that even staff members might see a good show for just about nuthin.

Between the Lines

By B. M. G.

Now here we are
With more degrees
Than there are jobs
So now's the chance
For us to do
The things we've always Wanted to.
If you'll ransack
Your memory
You'll probably find
Tiny wishes
That you might be
A this or that
When you "got big."
For instance when
The boards say "no"
You can go out
And get a job
Blowing the whistle
In a factory
And then I guess
That you have had
Fond dreams of being
The man who sits
In the very middle
Of the street.
With a blow torch
And melts everything
In his reach
While traffic drives
Around him;
Or show me one
Who hasn't wished
That he might be
A soda-jerker
And shout around
Something about
Adam and Eve
Upon a raft
Or maybe you
Would like to be
A La Palina
Politician
And then perhaps
You might arrange
To get a job
For two or three
Who boast about
Their B. Ed.

Lillian Hauss is worse than Lowell Bailey used to be at two and three-timing. Wonder if she'll settle down as well.

There've been too many picnics lately. Suppose that's why it rained and knocked four in the head Thursday?

Anklets and hair ribbons seem to be the style down at the Delta Sig house now.

Why Marx Colombo and Georgia Hankla are such close friends lately.

Why Harold Bailey didn't join the young men who serenaded Anthony Hall last Tuesday night.

Why Harold Brown and Jimmie Mitchell don't wear signs so they can be distinguished.

How "Pandora" managed to sleep through so much commotion during the May fete. And how you like the king.

Dear Sphinx:

I am deeply worried. I know you have helped so many people solve their problems that I'm going to lay mine before you.

Two loves I have but they are not the same. In fact, I'm between the 'ark herculean deeps and His Royal Nibs of Hades.

Although Mike Lenich is not aware of it, I seem to have a growing (been growing for nine months now) affection for him. I can't do me thing about it until I shake the steady affection of another young man who I do not wish to hurt.

I think Mike is ideal. Do you suppose his name is really Michael? I hope so. He is the grandest thing—really "stacked!" He has a mean look that girls just adore.

Since the Sphinx is said to know all, see all and hear all, I don't think it necessary to say more about the "steady affection."

Now, just what would you advise?
Perplexed.

Dear Perplexed:

Here is a problem that has faced he beauties all through the ages. I remember Cleopatra's worries, and Pompadour's, and Peggy Joyce's. Perplexed, "steady affection" is sometimes worrying, but on the other hand you can depend upon it. Mike is adorable looking and the people who know him best think very highly of him; they say he's a good sport. But as far as I know, he's never yet been in love. That look on his face speaks possessiveness to me. Do you think you'd like such a person—long, and if you began to waver, wouldn't you only dread to hurt him, but be afraid to? I believe, considering everything, it's best for you to stick to the man you have. Worship Mike from that haven. I'm sure he'd be pleased with your interest. I hope you'll be happy whatever you decide to do.

Sympathetically,
The Sphinx.

Heavy Football Schedule Coming During Next Year

The Southern Teachers' football team this fall will probably be a lighter team than that of the previous year, but should be plenty fast and better on the offense, according to Coach McAndrew. The prospects look good for a successful season for about a dozen letter men will be back in harness and some flashy new material from the Frosh will be available. The line will be lacking in beef. With an unusually heavy schedule coming, the season promises to be a daisy from the opening whistle. Five games will be played on the home field, four of these being night contests. The schedule follows:

Sept. 24, Illinois Wesleyan at Bloomington.
Sept. 30, Murray, Ky. Teachers at Carbondale (night).
Oct. 7, Cape Girardeau Teachers at Carbondale (night).
Oct. 15, DeKalb Teachers at DeKalb.

Oct. 21, McKendree at Carbondale (night).
Oct. 28, Normal at Carbondale (night).

Nov. 5, Shurtleff at Alton.
Nov. 11, Cape Teachers at Cape Girardeau.
Nov. 19, Charleston Teachers at Carbondale.

Several brilliant performers will be lost by graduation, and the shoes of some of these men can not possibly be filled. Among them are: Captain Blackie Canada, last year's all-state center, and Jimmie Johnson, weighty guard, who received the trophy last fall as the best all-round man on the team. "Buddy" Hodge has played his last game, and will be remembered for his inspired playing and fighting spirit. Glenn Martin, who was forced out of the game at the beginning of the season with a broken leg, will receive his degree this week. Abe is one of the best field generals in the state, and except for his injury would have been certain to get an all-state selection as half-back. Robertson and Willis, pillars of the 1931 line, have finished their college careers, as well as Watson and Lauder, two other stars. The foregoing group represent a lot of football brain and brawn, and the job of finding substitutes to fill their places is no small one.

Among the letter men who will be back in uniform will be the following outstanding performers:

Albert Patton, captain and full-back will be back to run the team; Captain Sisney, two hundred pound tackle will appear in the line; Hippo Brown, giant tackle; Davison, speedy half-back; Holder, half-back; Minton, tackle; McGowan, half; Patten, end; Reeves, guard; Bertoni, half-back; Stephens, tackle; Stormont, guard; Alvin Taylor, end.

Two promising transfers who should be eligible are Wilmoth, and Wallace Stephenson from Monmouth—both big men with plenty of drive. A likely looking bunch of freshmen who will be candidates for places on the varsity are the following:

Atkinson, center; O'Malley, center; Wiggins, center; Thomas, Brickley, Clifford Dever, quarterback; Fogley, end; Leo Hunter, guard; Harolle, end; Mike Lenich, half; Noble Thomas, tackle; Thurman, guard; Wolfenbarger, end.

Too great confidence in success is the likeliest to prevent it; because it hinders us from making the best use of advantages which we enjoy.—W. V. Atterbury.

Student Golf Team Loses to Faculty Team

The faculty golf team defeated a student golf team last Saturday morning at Jackson Country Club, 33 up, in an eighteen-hole match. This was quite a victory for the faculty, since they were not as easy as believed by several students who thought they could "take" them at their own game.

This overwhelming victory climaxes the athletic year of the profs. In every sport they have shown their ability, finishing near the top in both the basketball and baseball leagues, and now beating the student golf team very decisively.

The results of the match play: Miles and Warren, Sr., beat Williams and Warren, Jr., 11 up, 18 holes.

Neckers and McIntosh beat Neber and Eaton, 12 up, 18 holes.

Bryant and Wright beat Leo Brown and Paul Peterson, 10 up, 18 holes.

More Than Three Hundred Will be Graduated June 3

Commencement exercises for the 153 graduates of the four year course and the 152 graduates of the two year course will be conducted Friday morning in the Shryock Auditorium. The academic procession, preceding the exercises, will begin at nine-thirty o'clock.

The college orchestra will play both the processional and the recessional marches for the exercises. The orchestra will also furnish the selection, Symphony No. 6—Surprise (Hayden), preceding the Commencement address which will be given by Hon. F. G. Blair, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mr. John Dill, member of the Board of Trustees, will confer the degrees.

Candidates for graduation in both the two and four year courses are divided into three groups, those having their work completed June 3, July 15, or August 26. Of the senior college graduates, 71 will receive degrees Friday, 85 in July, and 47 in August. In the junior college course 76 will receive diplomas Friday, 48 in the second graduation, and 28 in the final division.

The professor of Psychology at Boston University has stopped noting in his classes. He says that note-taking substitutes the hand for the brain and in the end offers a very poor and incomplete reproduction of the lectures.

FOR THE GRADS OF '32 ONLY

Seniors—I regret I cannot address you as "fellow seniors," for long ago I received my B. S. degree—I have a message of the utmost vital importance for each of you. It is not through any show of a feeling of superiority that I address you, but rather with a feeling of one who has long traveled a path that a stranger is now confronted with and must tread upon, and wishes to, and feels that he might be better equipped, to point out the pitfalls to the stranger that he may avoid them.

In brief, students, I wish to relate a few facts to you, not as a sermon, but as entirely devoid of enforced didacticism. These facts you may accept or reject, laugh at or ponder over, heed, or forget, just as you will. I do not intend to make a futile effort to set myself and my doctrines upon a pedestal, and, from my advantageous height, thrust my tentacles down your gaping throats. No! My dogma will be merely stated to you, and, as aforementioned, accepted or rejected by you as your fancy dictates.

I have endeavored to make clear that I do not feel superior to you, students, but desire to act in an advisory capacity with the acquired wisdom of one who has years of experience in the thing that now confronts you—namely, living in the world.

You students of the class of '32 are faced with the dilemma of successfully launching your more- or less fragile bark upon the malestrom of the sea of life. Many of you will teach in the subsequent years. Others will place themselves in a different niche in the Hall of Life, while others will postpone a little longer the launching of their craft by keeping it in dry dock through the medium of securing still higher education. In any event each and all of you, from the moment you cast aside your cap and gown, will be personalities faced with responsibilities hitherto not encountered. It is my purpose and desire to aid you by giving you advance warning of these responsibilities, and how to cope with them when they arise.

Since the majority of you graduates will teach, at least during the coming year, I will assume that the class as a whole intend to do so, thus making it possible for me to speak in more specific and less general terms.

To begin with, your names have already been received by innumerable publishing firms by means they have devised for doing so. This summer, agents will bear down upon you and interest and implore you to purchase a set of their Encyclopedia St. Vitus, illustrated with one thousand maps and four thousand pictures. This will be the latest in encyclopedias, and you, as a teacher, must have a set. To cope with this situation I have made a detailed research study of the reaction of 20,212 graduates when confronted with the same problem. The statistics show that 9,128 bought the set, an additional 3,450 paid one dollar down and no more keeping the encyclopedias, nevertheless, while 7,638 either kicked the salesman off their porch, refused to answer their repeated knocking, or set the family beagle hound loose to clear the premises of a certain undesirable agent. The remaining graduate of the 20,212 observed, and not yet classified, died from the venomous toxin resulting from the bite of a bookworm. Basing a judgment upon the statistics catalogued above, I have found the most sagacious policy of dealing with the situation to be the following: Buy the books; then throw them in the river.

Another situation you must deal with is one created when you attend your first Teachers Institute meeting. Upon doing so you will meet a few tricksters who secure their livelihood by preying upon the unwary first year teacher. These fellows accost you with a scheme for making gigantic profits in your profession. They tell you of miraculous opportunities to gain untold wealth by teaching in the schools of Spitzbergen, or perhaps Samilland, or even Carbondale. They divulge the fact that you are paid with wooden nickles, which, when enough are accumulated, are traded to the government for a cord of wood, each stick of which is equivalent to our American dollar, or about thirty cents. Many who are proud to be termed skeptics have been lured into this utopian myth, only to discover, when they arrive in Spitzbergen, that the wonder educational head they sent their money to secure maintenance for them had departed six months prior on the Steamer Ura Fool for the South Pole, your money with him, of course.

Thus, dear seniors of the '32 class are like graduates preyed upon. The pitfalls are too numerous to point out to you, but this word of warning to be alert and watch for them may be sounded. I hope I have made at least a few of you conscious of the means by which your lives may be ruined. As I stated before, you may accept or reject, laugh at or ponder over, heed or forget what I have communicated to you, only the wisdom expressed by your future behavior will reveal which you have done. But please, you graduates, do not be duped or beguiled to the extent that you shall summer, or more accurately, simmer, in Spitzbergen.

May the joys of life alight on your heads and seek eternal rest. Best wishes to you all.

(Signed) I. M. Kidding, B. S.

Y. W. Y. M. WEINER ROAST

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. closed a successful year with a weiner roast at Midland, Hills Country Club last Tuesday evening. Forty members were present, including the chaperones, Miss Ruby Roberson and Miss Carpenter.

The Y. M. C. A. will continue to hold meetings during the summer session. Both associations plan to send delegates to the Lake Geneva Conference in Wisconsin.

NEW LETTER MEN

The new letter men have been announced. Of the 25 men qualifying for letters Carl Wright has the distinction of being the only man receiving his fourth. Five men on the following list will be lost to the team by graduation. They are Ernest Davis, Glenn Martin, Walter Schrade, Richard Watson, and Carl Wright. There are no juniors lettering this year: all but five of the men on the list are either freshmen or sophomores.

BULLETIN

At the farewell banquet of the Southern track team, held at the University Cafe last night, Abe Martin was elected captain of the team for the past season. Gerald Davidson was elected captain for next spring. The team has been without a captain during the past season due to the absence of Captain-elect Pete Ray.

Exchange

With the second week of spring football practice underway, Coach Flamank is busy working out a new technique for next fall. Although handicapped by the small number of gridders he has out, "Big George" is trying out new plays and perfecting old ones.—The Capaha Arrow, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Roughness in football is also being eliminated in Yugoslavia. For instance, the new rule passed by the Zagreb Football Association of that country reads: "When one player jumps on another with both feet, he shall be warned."—The Columns, Fairmont State Teachers College.

Another thing that strikes us as being strange is the way that the student has to pay for the teacher's mistakes. If the instructor has gone slowly all semester, and has failed to cover the material required by the course, the student is forced either to go at double speed those last three lazy weeks of school or he must do it as "outside reading" for the semester exam.—The Eureka Pegasus, Eureka, Illinois.
